The Cleaner Air Partnership

We are a unique public-private partnership across business, transportation, the environment, health, and local government that promotes cleaner air in the Sacramento region.

The Sacramento region has serious air quality and public health needs:

- We have large populations within disadvantaged communities who are hard-hit by the health problems that our air pollution causes.
- We are not in attainment with State or Federal health-based air quality standards, and we will not be for a long time.
- Air quality and public health are critical to a thriving business environment that attracts and retains skilled workers.
- Sacramento's air basin is one of the five most polluted by ozone in the entire U.S., according to the American Lung Association's 2018 rankings.
- The region does not meet the cookie-cutter definition of an area impacted by air pollution - our region is affected mainly by mobile source pollutants from cars, trucks, and locomotives.

2018

The Sacramento region is not receiving an adequate share of Community Air Protection funds relative to our need.

In 2018, the Cleaner Air Partnership is working to secure an additional $35 Million for disadvantaged communities in our region:

$250 Million Community Air Protection Program

1.5% Sacramento Region in FY 17/18 Budget

95% of last year's inaugural allocation of Community Air Protection Program funding (created to implement AB 617) went to the "Big Three" air districts - Bay Area, San Joaquin Valley, and South Coast. The Sacramento region's five air districts received 1.5% of these funds, highly disproportionate to our need.

This year, the Cleaner Air Partnership is fighting to earmark $35 Million in Community Air Protection Program funding for EV infrastructure, transit vehicles, locomotives, and more to benefit all communities across the Sacramento region.

Securing these Cap & Trade funds would significantly boost mobility, social equity, and economic vitality in our region.

Our region's five air districts have a backlog of shovel-ready projects totaling $365 Million.
The Cleaner Air Partnership

We are a unique public-private partnership across business, transportation, the environment, health, and local government that promotes cleaner air in the Sacramento region.

Members of the Cleaner Air Partnership include top leaders in business, government, and environmental advocacy who work together to improve air quality and achieve a more livable, economically vibrant Sacramento region.
